ANNOUNCEMENT

WET WORKSHOP IARW 2014

"Laboratory Diagnostic of Superficial Mycosis"

Clinical Microbiology Laboratory, Faculty of Medicine,

Universitas Indonesia Jakarta, Indonesia

Thursday, November 27th, 2014

Dear participants,

Superficial mycosis, including candidiasis and dermatophytosis are very common in tropical countries like Indonesia. The type and severity of the host response is often related to the species and strain of organisms causing the infection.

Identification of the causative organism is essential to choose appropriate therapy. The development of new antifungal drugs has made it increasingly important to be able to distinguish one fungus from another.

This workshop is organized to improve our skill in conducting laboratory diagnosis of superficial mycoses.

Regards,

Anis Karuniawati, MD, PhD
Chairman of 9th IARW 2014
